in the period i have chosen to bring before the reader civilization was on the decline and progress imperceptible but the germs of a riper growth were still existent concealed within the spreading darkness of medievalism when grecian science and philosophy seemed to stand on the threshold of modern enlightenment the pall of despotism and superstition descended on the earth and stifled every impulse of progress for more than fifteen centuries the yggdrasil of christian superstition spread its roots throughout the roman empire strangling alike the nascent ethics of christendom and the germinating science of the ancient world had the leading minds of that epoch instead of expending their zeal and acumen on theological inanities applied themselves to the study of nature they might have forestalled the march of the centuries and advanced us a thousand years beyond the present time the reign of the byzantine emperor justinian 527 65 stands out in late roman and medieval history justinian re conquered far flung territories from the barbarians overhauled the empire s administrative framework and codified for posterity the inherited tradition of roman law this work represents a modern study in english of the social and economic history of the eastern roman empire in the reign of the emperor justinian drawing upon papyrological numismatic legal literary and archaeological evidence the study seeks to reconstruct the emergent nature of relations between landowners and peasants and aristocrats and emperors in the late antique eastern empire it provides a social and economic context in which to situate the emperor justinian s mid sixth century reform programme and questions the implications of the eastern empire s pattern of social and economic development under justinian for its subsequent post justinianic history this one volume translation with commentary and introduction brings together three important works all three texts cast great if generally neglected light on politics and ideology in early byzantium agapetus wrote c 527 30ce from a position sympathetic to justinian when he had still to consolidate his authority he sets out what an emperor must do to acquire legitimacy in terms of government s being the imitation of god read in context his work is much more than a list of pious commonplaces the dialogue written anonymously towards the end the same reign comprises fragments from books 4 5 of a philosophically sophisticated lost longer work setting out requirements for the ideal polity based on a similar concept of imperial rule with extensive comment on matters of current political salience but from an implicitly hostile standpoint not only does the text reflect the nature of neoplatonic political philosophy but it also penetrates with its ideas deep into the inner realities of the time into the political problems of constantinople during the first half of the sixth century the third text was written by paul the silentiary to mark the rededication of the basilica hagia sophia built thirty years earlier under the orders of emperor justinian i together the translations provide an important insight into the early byzantine period
